DEATH CLAIMS WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN

Dr. J. E. Venters Succumbs to Typhoid Fever After a Short Illness.—End Came Last Friday Afternoon About 4 O'clock

DR. JAMES E. VENTERS

To write of the life and death of Dr. James E. Venters is to write of a man. Losing his dear mother when a mere boy he made his way thru the world without her motherly counsel, and well as he might.

His ancestors were among the first to put a foot on his native soil and they were a brave, bold, proud set, and he inherited from them his loyalty as a man. He was a son of the late John Venters and was born and reared on the head of Elkhorn Creek in what was then Pike county, now Letcher, and in the upper end of what is now the new town of Jenkins.

In very early life he fitted himself for the duties of teaching and engaged in that profession. He attended the Southern Normal School at Bowling Green, Ky., graduating with highest honors. Returning to his native county he engaged successfully in teaching in our common schools. Finally deciding upon the medical profession for his life work he entered a medical college at Louisville and was graduated with highest class honors. From the very beginning of his medical career he was a success. The night was never so dark or cold or the roads so rough that he did not gladly go to relieve the sick. It can truthfully be said of him that he regarded his friends as worth the sacrifice of his life. He was a ripe scholar, a deep reader and a proficient student of nature—therefore his success in his chosen profession.

From the time he was a boy of seven till the day of his demise the writer knew him and knew him well. He was a model boy, a model young man, a model gentleman to the end. Of course, like all men, Dr. Venters had his faults, as men count faults, but they were of that kind that would ripen into friendship.

Though not an adherent to any church or religious creed he was moral, upright, honest and a true gentleman. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity at this place and one of its highly prized members and his death has cast a pall over its entire membership. He was also an Oddfellow. At his request the Masons had full charge of his funeral and in their beautiful and impressive way he was buried Sunday in the presence of perhaps 500 of his relatives and friends, at Thornton where sleep his father.

mother, brother and other relatives.

Dr. Venters was about thirty-five years of age and a son-in-law Judge T. G. Lewis, of Hyden, having about ten months ago married a daughter of Mr. Lewis. Their short married life was one of the happiest and sweetest. To her we offer all the consolation we have. God will take care of her in her sad loss. He also leaves one brother, Booker, and several half brothers and sisters.

Dr. Venters was a member of the well-known firm of Drs. Fitzpatrick, Venters & Bentley, physicians and druggists at this place. About four weeks ago he was stricken with typhoid and though every scheme known to medical science and with the very best of nursing he continued to go down and down until the end came Friday. Owing to his exposures in trying to save others from this dread malady and other diseases he apparently was an easy victim. It looked like from the beginning he himself had little hope of recovery.

His passage from time to the great beyond was sweet and calm—like that of a child passing into a sweet slumber. To write on and on of the merits of our dead friend is easy. Yet we desist. May God who rules all things and "doeth all things well" take care of the bereaved friends and relatives is our wish. Minnie, you will miss him, his many friends will miss him and the poor suffering sick will miss him, but God can heal all wounds and fill up the void with sunbeams.

First Actor—I understand the audience last night was very cold. Second Actor—They were at first, but when they began to recollect that they had paid good money to see the show they got hot.

OUR JOB PRINTING IS BEST

REMEMBER THE BAZAAR AND BOX—SUPPORT OF THE DORCAS CLUB THANKSGIVING.

We have sunshine, cold, clouds and snow. Is this news?

Colds continue to be common and the blowing and noise of noses alone disturb the serenity.

A wave of sadness and deep sorrow spread like a pall over the town when the news of the death of Dr. Venters was announced at his room at the KY hotel last Friday evening.

J. W. and G. W. Orr, pleasant business men of Jonesville, Va., and representing the International Harvester Co., with gasoline engines as their leader, were here the last of the week.

Hiram Blair, of Lee, is sending the Eagle six months to his sister-in-law, Mrs. H. J. Craft at Mossyrock, Wash. Mrs. Blair is also a sister to the late F. M. Blair.

The Eagle has just turned out a big circular, nearly as big as the Eagle itself, of Reubin Bolling & Co., popular and enterprising merchants of Flat Gap, Virginia.

Dr. John W. Duke, a popular and proficient practitioner from Hindman, was visiting his sister, Mrs. George M. Adams, the dentist, the first of the week. Before returning home the doctor will spend a few days at London.

We were crowded, almost overwhelmed with job work up until late Saturday evening, consequently, this Eagle is the product of about two days' work. However, the Magazine Section goes in for good measure this week.

Collector Sam Collins, Sam Breeding, Arch Jenkins and others are attending Federal Court at London.

Last week over 200 indictments were returned by the Grand Jury at Hazard. Most of these were for liquor. And there are others to follow. It is plainly to be seen that the time is here now when our grand juries do not meet often enough. Any boot-legger can sell whisky for two or three months, create all manner of disturbances, cause the murder of half a dozen men and then slip out of the county and State before the grand jury meets. After a man has gone out of the State it does little or no good to indict him except to keep him away. Of course the county authorities are able to facilitate matters very much in case they are vigilant but the burden of most violations lies with our grand juries and the meeting of our Circuit courts.

Charles Turner, perhaps from Knott or Breathitt county, was tried here Monday on a charge of lunacy and was ordered to be sent to the insane asylum.

To the Citizens of Whitesburg and Letcher County: We desire to thank you for the kind and generous treatment shown Dr. J. E. Venters during his last sickness and in interment. Myself and daughter will never forget the noble sacrifices made and the kindness shown in this ordeal and shall ever hold ourselves in readiness to return same. In deep sadness, we are,

Very Respectfully, T. G. LEWIS.

What They Say

W. R. Brown, teacher of sub-district 5 Ed. Division 8, is giving satisfaction in this his first school in his home county of Letcher as will be seen by the following statement signed by the pupils:

"Crown, Ky., Oct. 29.

"The school is going on fine. W. R. Brown is the best teacher we ever had, and we invite all to come and see. (Signed) Elihu Adams, D. Brown, Angeline Tyree, Allie Caudill, A. Adams, Lula Caudill, Manda Adams, Ollie Adams, Lora Brown, Mary Tyree, Lula Brown, Henry Brown, Ada Caudill, Ellie Tyree, Steve Sexton—and others."

Mr. Brown taught for several years in Perry county with great success. He secured a number of first-class certificates in Letcher but they run out before being used. Trustees, give the home boys a chance if you want good results.

WHAT DID SHE MEAN

He—They say a cat has nine lives. She—Yes; and we ought to be thankful that a lobster hasn't.

OUR THANKSGIVING SAY

Hail thou, King of the season,
Of the sunshine and the rain,
Hail thou of the storm and tempest,
To Thee we appeal again.

To thine own lavish hand
From whence our all doth move,
We gladly lay our tribute down
And plead for mercy, love.

Lo, a twelve months more—could we believe
That our lives are thus extended;
Oh, Father, in whom we trust and move,
Say, are we thus commended?

And now to Thee with thankful hearts,
To thy cold skies above,
We look again for more and more
Of Thine own gracious love.

Oh, for the sunshine and the harvest,
For the music and the breeze,
For health, for life, for blessings all,
Yes, in Thee are all of these;

Great and glorious King of Kings,
Mighty ruler of all below,
Let down, let down, thy glorious blessings
And enable us to live—and go.

We gladly shoulder all thy burdens,
Though heavy or light they be,
And gladly push to thy horizon
That lies nearest unto thee.
Give us thy strength to labor,
To fight in every fray,
For we thus gladly offer tribute
On this our Thanksgiving Day.

We are no poet, no not a bit of it, but the above expresses our feelings on this glorious Thanksgiving Day. Looking back over the past year we see dark clouds with only slight shiny linings, we hear moans from hearts bereft and we see tears falling from faces of loved ones. The widow's moans, the orphan's cry and the poverty stricken are still in the land. God knows the world is full of tears and sighs, heavy hearts and sad, sad memories. Yet above all, in His own beneficent way, God reigns, the seasons come, the rain and snow falls and the glory of his kind Providence is abroad in the land.

He moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform. He places his foot upon the sea And rides upon the storm.

These four lines may not be as the poet put it, but its our own recollection of it. Who has not something, tho' ever so small, to bring rays of sunshine into every past year? Tho' a mere speck, a transitory thought, yet "every good and perfect thought cometh down from the Father in whom there is no variableness, neither the shadow of turning." The Eagle has done what it could to bring rays of sunshine into every home. It is thankful that it has been blessed with power to do this. Tho' remorse and crosses and losses have come in its way, its thankful that its hundreds of friends have stood as its tower of strength amid its besetments. It knows that all strength comes from on high and now as it lays this Thanksgiving away with the records of the past it looks forward for its friends many days of happiness in the future. May the Giver of all gifts shower them down and may the recipients thereof give honor to the Giver.

A Father's Vengeance

Would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy of South Rockwood, Mich. but he was powerless before attacks of Kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. Its the best kidney medicine I ever saw. Backache, tired feeling, nervousness, loss of appetite, warn of kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Beware: take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at Whitesburg Drug Co.

EDITORIAL

IT is currently reported that when the Legislature meets steps will be immediately taken for the formation of a new county in the great Elkhorn coal field. The talk is that the end of Letcher from about mouth of Boone up will be cropped off and become a part of the new county, Pike and parts of Knott and Floyd to furnish the remainder. If John Mayo wants the new county it looks like he could get it, but we know nothing as to his wishes in the matter and do not know that there is anything in the talk anyway.

The official majority of Senator McCrery for Governor was 33,234.

FROM the fact that we would probably never again have the privilege we printed on our pictorial page the pictures of the medical quintette at this place. A few weeks ago the whole five were in strong active manhood, now behold the circle is broke. Men in the flush of strength and health struggle mightily for preponderance and preferment but death levels all. Under its impartial hand, the powerful and the gay, the brave and the haughty, the humblest pedestrian and the peasant become equal. May the living look ahead, considerate, as they ought, and remember that "to dust shalt thou return."

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by dealers.

THE COMING MOUNTAIN CITY

JENKINS

LETCHER CO.'S METROPOLIS

Onward and upward are the progressive points that characterize the city's growth.

There is talk of organizing a mustache club, as a number of the boys are inclined to grow them.

The big mill being promoted by Mr. Sutton down at No. 1 is being started with every evidence of success.

E. B. Schenck, who was seriously hurt at the rock crusher, is able to hobble about but will be sometime before he is able to resume work.

It is a pleasure now to travel the old road leading from Alex Bentley's into the city. Since the repairing by the Consolidation it is a model thoroughfare, and the company should be commended for their progressive-ness.

W. P. McDonald, the pleasant Canadian who came here several months ago, is superintending a large force of grade hands up toward No. 8 mine.

Mr. Trautweller, one of the Eagle's "400" who has held a good position in Abbott's office, has gone to Baltimore.

Roy Wright and Milt Butler, enterprising Pikevillians, interested in the papers of that town, were here, and incidentally got on the Eagle list. Thanks.

W. W. Burke, of Paintsville, J. Wash Adams and others are ill.

Robt. Banks was an interested sightseer, so was F. G. Fields, accompanied by P. O. Inspector Roberts who was looking after the betterment of the mail service. The people of Jenkins expect a great improvement in the connection between here and Whitesburg.

We regret the departure for Washington City of our friend, D. W. Gustin, who held an official position with the Consolidation. He goes to become private secretary to Congressman Switzer of the Portland, O., district, and his friends, who are legion, would not be surprised to hear of a political bee buzzing around him ere many moons.

The many friends of A. K. Bowles were agreeably surprised upon his arrival a few days ago from Shelfar, Va., to learn that he had made a sacred vow uniting him with one of Old Virginia's fairest flowers, Miss Elizabeth Shelley Meredith, she returning with him. Mr. Bowles is to be congratulated upon his success in winning his bride. Here's wishing long life, prosperity and happiness.

Among the enterprising people who enroll with the Eagle are J. W. Bise, the tinner, who is from Morgantown, Pa.; E. B. Little, R. A. Holmes, E. E. Kendall, S. R. Squibb, all in the office back of the bungalow; T. L. McCown, the accommodating barber; Walter Perry, the genial cashier of the bank; J. L. Stoner, with Mr. Dunlap; G. G. Harbour, E. L. McCue, Sam P. Wright, J. M. Gallion, Wm. A. Ewald, H. Goff, J. R. Boggs and others at Jenkins, while the out-of-town list includes W. W. Burke, Paintsville; R. I. Cawthorn, Glamorgan; R. A. Adams, East Stone Gap; Mr. Little, Carnegie, Pa.; S. R. Squibb, Morgan Hill, Cal.; J. E. Buckingham, Paintsville. A thousand thanks, gents!

'Tis with pleasure that we make special mention of W. N. Ewald and his connection with the Young Men's Christian Association, an organization that is doing a grand work throughout the country. Mention was made last week of the rapid construction of the large temporary quarters of the Y. M. C. A. which is now almost ready for the public. Mr. Ewald took special pride in showing the Eagle man through the mammoth building, with an explanation of its different departments. There will be all the social privileges given in any of the city Y. M. C. A.'s, in fact it will be the center of the social and religious elements of the city, where the morals of the young men and young women will be safely guarded. The main auditorium will be used for religious services on Sunday, during the week there will be educational lectures, moving picture shows, etc. On the left of the main lobby is a spacious reading room, where at all times will be found the magazines, daily papers, etc. The billiard room will contain four first class tables, under Christian management, and will be minus the undesirable features of many pool rooms. Aside from these there will be a bowling alley, a barber shop, hot and cold baths, in fact everything that will go to make a city Y. M. C. A. and the people of Jenkins will be proud of the selection of its worthy management with Mr. Ewald at the helm.

The power of wealth has set the hills of Improvement Branch and the long neglected section thereabouts to revolving, and today the music of the woodman's axe, the saw, the wheels of machinery—the pump of power and great wealth—is in evidence everywhere you go. Where a few months ago were forests, rich with abundant timber, mountains groaning under their weight of the best coal to be found under the sun—but neglected in the way of development, are coming to the front—where they so rightly belong; buildings of every kind are springing up, the hills, rough-hewn, are smiling that they are awakening, that their weight of great wealth is needed for the uses of man; that their coal area is now to furnish the power that will start the wheels of industry to revolving—revolving in a way that will cause the world to stand aghast. Eastern Kentucky, long neglected, in the years ago famous for its moonshine stories, of telling feuds and desperate characters, barriers in the way of progress, is making history that will cause the more refined (?) sections of the Commonwealth to look on with pride. In future years they will be proud of us—proud of the mountains. Again touching on Improvement Branch and mine No. 6 there is magic in everything contiguous thereto, for a few months ago the large mill of the Nicola Building Co. was about the only improvement anywhere around, but today there are buildings of every kind under construction, while a large store building is full of goods, large barns, office buildings, miners' residences, etc., are varied—all built on modern methods. Within six months, I will venture to say, automobiles will be running from Jenkins via Improvement Branch over the mountain to McRoberts, the new city on Wrights Fork. It will all be marvelous, indeed.

I. N. Lewis, David Hays and I. B. Fields were selected to appraise the Fitzpatrick, Venters & Bentley drug store.

L. W. Fields and James M. Hogg are in Cincinnati on business.

News of the death of Mrs. Rausea Jane Holcomb at Stonega reached here this week. She was the widow of Uncle Dave Holcomb. We sympathize with the many friends.

Miss Eliza Collier, telephone girl at this place, visited her parents at Baker this week.

Bernice, young son of Jas. H. Adams, of London, won a $20 gold piece in the Laurel county corn growers contest.

G. B. Vaughan, the hustling representative of the N. C. & C. Co., was here a few days ago.

C. W. Adams, of Adams & Sullivan, railroad contractors at Extra, called and had us print some script.

Messrs. G. B. and Tom Doggett, together with all the rest of the men employed here on railroad work, are entitled to the thanks of our people and the friends of Dr. Venters for favors shown. At least the Eagle thanks them.

It is predicted that the force of hands on the tunnel above town will see daylight on the other side this week.

If you owe the Eagle be sure and let us suffer for coal, taxes and bread. Is it right to get a man's labor and material and then let him become embarrassed financially?

Little Clarence Salyer is reported very ill.

Little Miss Louise Fields has been quite sick.

R. Monroe Fields is very sick at his home in the Lewis Addition.

Edison, young son of Judge Lewis, is very sick and typhoid is feared.

If there is going to be any Santa Claus and Xmas goods in town the merchants are shy on saying so thru the great medium, the Eagle. Of course we charge.

The Board of Supervisors as recently appointed by Judge Fitzpatrick for the year 1912 are: Wilson Franklin, Edward Polly, (Camp Br.) Finley Ingram, N. R. Craft and R. B. Caudill. In our judgment no better qualified men and better citizens could have been selected for this important work.

Mrs. E. B. Maggard and Mrs. Nelson of Eolia were pleasant callers on the Eagle yesterday.

You may break, you may shudder and look very wise, but the up-to-date merchant must advertise.

The Governor restored to citizenship Willie Haynes, a few days ago.

Dr. Geo. M. Adams, dentist, is permanently located at Whitesburg. See his card in the Eagle.

No More Worry. "Party that lost purse containing twenty dollars need worry no longer - it has been found."

FEMININE AMENITIES

Myrilla—I'm too young, I imagine, for anyone to ask me to marry him. Rosalind—Never mind, dear, you'll be much, very much older before anyone does!

Craftsville

This is one of the pioneer sections of the county, the Crafts-ville office having been established over thirty years ago and deserves mentioning in the columns of the Eagle. There has been a new order of things since the construction of the railroad was begun and the coming years will see phenomenal changes along industrial lines.

R. C. Hart who has been at the helm, the accommodating bookkeeper for Winston & Co., at this place left a few days ago for his home at Apple Grove, near Richmond, Va., where he will recuperate for some time. He made many friends while here who were loath to give him up. Mr. Pendleton of Richmond takes his post.

G. F. Evans of the Winston bridge crew left for his home in Rockcastle county where he will spend Christmas with home folks and will return here about the first of the year.

John Q. Holbrook, a live wire when it comes to sawmilling, is getting his mill in fine shape and will soon be turning out lumber to perfection.

Engineer Wm. S. McCormick, formerly of Elkton, Tenn., is a regular visitor at Mayking. Let echo answer why.

Henry Potter is considerably indisposed of late. His many friends are hoping for his speedy recovery.

Engineers are at work locating a line of railroad from mouth of Boone up the Kentucky river to mouth of Moore's branch, thence up same about a mile and it is generally believed the line will be built. It will open up a very important and rich territory.

THE EAGLE PRINTER

HE SEIZED THE GOVERNMENT

Richard Watson Gilder's Story of How He Once Usurped the White House.

Governmental events of the highest importance sometimes happen without becoming generally known. Few people would have believed that within the last 20 years the reins of government at Washington fell for a few hours into the hands of a usurper; but in "Grover Cleveland: a Record of Friendship," no less an authority than Mr. Richard Watson Gilder has announced that startling fact.

One springtime night, during the second administration, Mrs. Gilder and I arrived late in Washington on our way to visit the president's family at Woodley, his then out-of-town home. We expected to stay all night at a hotel and go out to Woodley the next morning. But we were met by William Sinclair, the White House steward, and told that we were to spend the night at the executive mansion.

It was a balmy night. The White House gardens were odorous; it was like summer. The cool white matings were down, and the stately old house, in the mysterious and lovely moonlight, was more beautiful and noble than ever.

We had never before been there in the absence of the family, and it was a strange experience—all the more strange because on the train, coming down to Washington, we happened to have been reading "The Prisoner of Zenda."

The next morning, Sunday, I went into the vacant office of the private secretary, Mr. Thurber, and left there a proclamation to the effect that, having arrived at the seat of government and at the mansion provided by the nation for its chief magistrate, and having found the place deserted, I thereby assumed the reins of government, and forthwith proceeded to issue my first command—of a nature personal to the secretary.—Youth's Companion.

WHO WROTE DAVID'S PSALMS?

It is Safe to Say That He Himself Composed Very Few of Them.

Thomas Chalmers Murray, professor of the Semitic languages in the Johns Hopkins university, in his book on the "Origin and Growth of the Psalms," says: "It is hard to make an estimate of the differing views as to the Davidic authorship of the psalms. Of the 73 psalms borrowed by our present psalter from the older collection, the most conservative authorities attribute to David himself between fifty and sixty, while the more radical authorities will admit that David composed no more than eight or ten. It is a question which can only be decided for each one through a patient, minute and loving study of the separate psalms." It is perhaps safe to say that but few of the psalms were written by David himself.

PAT'S TIME PROBLEM.

A well-known physician of Chicago was attending Old Pat, a faithful janitor, but a querulous patient. "Och, doctor, ye said Thursday would bring ye again and here it is Friday."

"Today's Thursday, Pat."
"Friday, doctor."
"Mistaken, Pat."
"Sure, I'll ask my daughter, Mary Ann! What day would it be?"
"Doctor's right, father. It's Thursday."

"Och, now, is it then? I ask your pardon, doctor. But since its Thursday when I thought it was Friday, was I gainin' a day, now, or losing six? Hould on, I know, doctor; 'tis according to whither this is last week or next."—Housekeeper.

HEALTH NOW FASHIONABLE

Women of the Educated Classes Today Worship at Altar of the Goddess Hygeia.

"Look to your health," said quaint old Isaac Walton, "and if you have it, praise God, and value it next to a good conscience." Among the educated classes the value of health was never more keenly appreciated than it is today. All kinds of devices are resorted to, in order to achieve and maintain it, and many people deny themselves all in order to follow in the footsteps of the Goddess Hygeia. They forswear choice foods, and look not upon the wine when it sparkles with amber clarity. The simplest fare contents them and water out of a wooden bowl is a nectar to them if only it confers upon them the supreme blessing of health.

In a word, to be healthy is to be fashionable, and what is fashionable must be attained at any cost. The woman who simulated a perpetual state of semi-invalidism, who reclined on a sofa all day long reading novels, who was always afflicted with the "vapours" (whatever that may mean), has now disappeared from our midst. One might search from Dan to Beersheba and yet not find her. It is in the hockey field and on the golfing greens that one must look for her sinewy successors. There can be no question that so far as the middle and upper classes are concerned, the importance of health and of subscribing to all the laws pertaining thereto is fully realized.

SOME OLD COURT CUSTOMS

Ancient Rules for Guidance of Officers and Gentlemen When Dining With Royalty.

Apropos of the recent coronation ceremonies in London, it is interesting to note the difference between court etiquette of today and that practiced 200 years ago.

Regulations prescribed by the lord chamberlain at that period in the history of the realm seem ridiculous in the extreme to us in this enlightened time, notwithstanding some of the customs today are decidedly unique.

For the benefit of officers, many of them of noble families, these rules were laid down: When invited to dine with royal persons, they were to be neatly dressed, with clean coats and boots, and were not to enter the room in a half-drunken condition.

They were warned not to drink after each mouthful, as that would make them drunk too soon, or to empty more than one goblet of wine after every two dishes.

They were not to put their hands in their plates, their bones under the table, lick their fingers, wipe their noses on the tablecloth, or to drink enough to make them fall off the chairs or walk with a staggering stride.

These are extracts from a set of rules carefully drawn up for the guidance of officers and gentlemen of noble families, which show that manners have improved since 1642.
